The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper, and also the local news published therein.Shutdown of one paper mill after another causes the publishers to value the "scraps of paper" more than ever.
Conservation is the word, if it never was before.Poland is just aching for a war with doesn't care much with whom. Since Germany was placed hors de combat, Poland is inclined to run amuck. Germany had a restraining hand on her neighbor.Charlie Chaplin, "painfully burned," can scarcely wear a more pained expression than when counting that paltry million dollar income. Injured innocence has nothing on Charlie when it comes to facial expression.The State House grounds at Montpelier will scarcely look like themselves with the jail fence removed, but they may look better in spite of that removal. Fences about yards, public or private, are going into the discard.It's a sure sign of the dearth of important news when a great news gathering association has to put on the wires a story about the action of some men in New York in putting a pet dog out of misery by means of electricity.
But the big news may be just around the corner.A prominent German in Germany declares: "Let us go to work." If he can only pass on that germ of thought to the other Germans the future of Germany will be assured in spite of the indemnity bill the government is called upon to pay. More work and less talk will work wonders for that country.An army hospital for the care of Americans disabled in the World war would have a splendid setting up in the hills of Vermont, and the environment would give the men much that they need to restore them to health.
A move to secure such an institution at some place in the state deserves to meet with success.The flow of British gold into the United States with which to retire another series of war bonds ought to permit a considerable sum of money to go into that expected business revival in the United States. Capital is waiting for the signal "Go," and the signal depends in large part on the state of mind of the people.After knocking down and dragging a Rutland county farmer some distance, a female driver of an automobile halted long enough for the farmer to be dragged out from beneath her machine, then she cranked up and hastened along without offering any further assistance. We leave it to the Bellows Falls Times to say whether she should be designated "lady" or "woman," or what.That action of two prominent litigants in Washington county court, one of whom is an attorney, in settling their differences out of court is an example of good procedure for the litigants, or possible litigants, in other cases to follow on the present docket or succeeding dockets. Very often the verdict of a jury is a compromise; and if the claims of the litigants are not too widely separated the differences can perhaps be settled by compromise without resort to the employment of a jury. It's worth trying.

PROTECTING THE TEACHERS.

If the sort of thing which occurred at Rockland, Mass., when an irate mother attacked a teacher with an ax, is to be repeated in any considerable number of cases it may be necessary to add jiu-jitsu to the normal school and teacher training courses. In the meantime, the law is expected to deal strictly with persons who resort to such means of remonstrance against the manner of treating school children.
That is not to say that the teacher is always in the right and the parent always in the wrong; but it is to say that there are means and methods which can be used without resort to the use of an ax or another implement of harm in bringing about a reform of school discipline, if such reform is found to be necessary. If the mother in the Rockland case had gone to the superintendent of the schools and had made a formal complaint, there is no doubt that the merits of the dispute would have been determined in an impartial manner; but if not there surely would be other recourse without going into violent action. But our teachers have a right to expect protection in the exercise of their normal prerogatives as mentors of the young. That goes without saying.

A Few Remarks.

Played out—open air concerts.
Dead men tell no tales—not even ghost stories.Many a girl who is as pretty as a picture is so for the same reason.

ern man with bills."Face the world with your backbone to the front," advises a twisted philoof bad eggs.Another way of saying it with flowers—Girls, if you want hearts-ease don't

A Wonderful Man.

J. B. sends us the following: A negro preacher, announcing that a white brother had consented to occupy the pulpit on the following Sunday, said that brother a glowing tribute:
"Dis noted divine," he said, "is one of "All right back there!" bawled the inine voice. "Jes' wait till I gets mah their necks expectantly, she entered with a basket of laundry.—American

Sleep Requirements of Children.

No child nutrition worker, says the United States public health service, can hope to get satisfactory results without insisting on enough sleep for her charges. Besides damaging the nervous system, late hours cause "sleep hunger" and make children nervous and fidgety. The service commends the following precepts just issued by the London county council: School children aged four years need 12 hours of sleep a day; aged five to seven, 11 to 12 hours; eight to 11, 10 to 11, and 12 to 14, nine to 10 hours. Children grow mainly while sleeping or resting, do you want yours to grow up stupid? ed? Tired children learn badly and often drift to the bottom of the class,
do you want yours to grow up stupid?
When children go to bed late their sleep is often disturbed by dreams and they do not get complete rest, do you want yours to sleep badly and become nervous? Sufficient sleep draws a child onward and upward in school and in home life; insufficient sleep drags it backward and downward; which way do you want your child to go? Tiresome children are often only tired children; test the truth of this. That a neighbor's child is sent to bed late is not a good reason for sending your child to bed late; two wrongs do not make a right. Going to bed late is a bad habit, which may be difficult to cure; persevere till you succeed in curing it.

Feared Might Be Carried By.

Owen Johnson, the novelist, was riding on a Long Island train trying to read his evening paper, but was annoyed by two inebriated men in the seat back of him. Their conversation was meaningless drivel, but they spoke in loud voices and had evidently been on a spree of several days.Finally one leaned over to Johnson and said: "Shay, my fren', what day ish to-day?"

"Friday," said Johnson curtly.

"Gosh!" he said in alarm as he arose unsteadily, "I gotta get off here."—St.
Louis Globe-Democrat.

His Preference.

A Boston artist relates that while he was painting in an open field one day a rustic came up and stood watching him. Presently the fellow remarked, "Purty clever you be, mister, a-paintin' two picters at wunst. But I like the one you got your thumb you notice them often. Later you forget about them. But people con-doesn't make any difference how long you wear Walk-Overs—they hold their shape. They feel com-

There is nothing much better you can say of a man than that he is reliable. You know where to find him.
Reliability is even more appreciated in an institution.

be worthy of the title—"RELIABLE."The First National Bank

Be Sure!

In all money affairs be sure. Don't think.
Don't Suppose. Don't Guess. Don't take anything for granted. When you pay a bill, get a receipt. When you hand money to anyone, even a street car conductor, speak out the amount. And know exactly how much money you have ahead.To this end HAVE A SAVINGS AC-
